

This would be the worst abuse of personal space when you can not "go to another car", if you were on the train. It is bad enough that one has to suffer screaming children on long flights but most people abuse the cell phone ettiquete no matter where they are.